Van Rensselaers and Winthrops may pride themselves on their fine old families, but their glory pales its ineffectual fires before the prestige of the Sullwagen name. It is the open sesame to preferment in politics and victory in war. Walter Stillwagen recently desired to be postmaster of Broadford, Pa. He brought recommendations to the department signed, as usual, by influential members of the party in Broadford.

They were all good men and true, loyal Democrats and faithful workers. There were 53 of them, and the name of every one of these blessed Democrats was Stillwagen. How many were sons, cousins nephews or grandfathers of the original Walter is not mentioned, but they were all relatives, and they all wanted him for postmaster. He could muster around him at need as many kinsmen as the old fighting Scottish clans in border war-

No such meeting has ever been held and no pledges have been made by Mr. Greenland to anyone. The didate for mayor.

The first meeting the Guzetle and Smiley charged as having been held was proved conclusively false, as none of the men mentioned had been at any such meeting at Lawlor's or elsewhere. This morning in their Beach desperation they charge that a meeting was held at Frank Dietrick's on the Sunday before the primary, and that all the saloon keepers of Lima were present; they also charge that Mr. Greenland was there. The fol- Smiley and His Organ Cannot Exlowing card from Mr. Dietrick brands the Gazette's article as false;

Eddior Times-Democrat:
The meeting which is charged as having been held at my place on the Sunday before the primary is a pure invention of, the distorted imagination of the political editor of the Gazette. On the day mentioned I was out of town all the day, and my place was closed and no meeting of any a most ridiculous manner, trying to kind was held there. In company with my wife I drove out to Henry Truch's in the morning and remained there all day. I was not at a meet-ing on that day or any other day in which Thomas Greenland's candidacy was mentioned. THANK DIETRICH.

Each time the boys make a charge they are caught in their old act of books. they are eaught in their old act of the falsifying. The public have so little faith in their statements, because seeking to be elected mayor will be they are always made without any semblance of truth, that they force whatever will, no doubt, now fix another date and place for the meeting they are so anxious to have been held, but they cannot make the charge stick for there has been no such
